

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5       A method for easily transmitting a message and a phone number to a called mobile terminal through the use of a one-touch call button when the calling mobile terminal cannot establish a call connection with the called mobile terminal. Therefore, there is no need for a user to manually input a phone number and message to be transmitted. A message from the calling mobile terminal is transmitted to the called mobile terminal on condition that the calling and called mobile terminal are all connected to a network, thereby quickly performing a calling operation.